ANGELS BATTLE OAKS TODAY IN FIRST CONTEST

Reports were current in San Francisco Monday that the New York Yankees plan to claim Joe DiMaggio, young Seals outfielder, immediately instead of waiting until the close of the season.

Charles Graham, Seals president, said he had received no official notice from the Yankees of their plans but declared that under no circumstances would DiMaggio be permitted to leave before September.

Although DiMaggio is one of the most dependable hitters and fielders on the Seals squad, as well as a favorite with fans, Graham believes he may be able to make a profitable deal with the Yankees in event they take up their option.

If DiMaggio does go up to the majors, Graham hopes to receive in return another outfielder and at least two pitchers. Pitchers are the Seals most urgent need at present, and if two good hurlers are received, they may more than offset DiMaggio's loss.

Following a statement by Earl McNeely, president of the Sacramento Senators, that this club was losing money and might be forced to withdraw from the league, Hyland Baggerly, league president, called a special meeting of all club directors to be held in San Francisco Friday.

Although other club owners were not greatly perturbed by McNeely's declaration that he believed all teams in the circuit were losing money, it was believed action might be taken toward reduction of salaries and possible cutting of players' salaries.

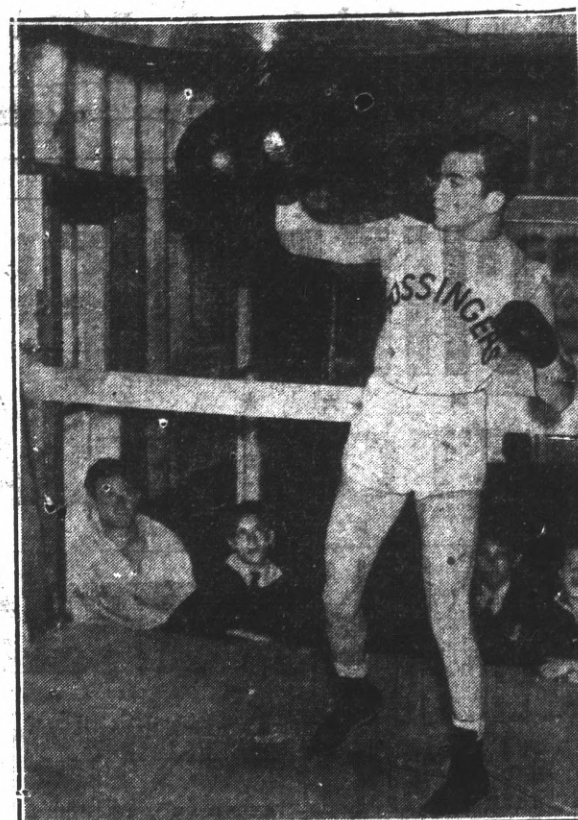

Unfavorable weather has made play unprofitable for most teams so far this season, with heavy losses registered when opening days and following week-ends were rained out.

Winning three games against the Portland Beavers over the weekend, the Oakland club maintained a comfortable lead in league standings, with an advantage of approximately three games over Los Angeles.

The Angels, coming strong in recent games, also won three games over the weekend from the San Francisco Seals to stay on the heels of the Oaks.

Tuesday the Angels and Oaks will open a series on the Oakland

TWO ATHLETES MAY BE BANNED FROM BIG MEET

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—UP—Eligibility rules today threatened to bar two prominent Pacific Coast athletes from competition in the I. C. 4-A, track and field meet at Cambridge May 31 and June 1.

Phil Levy, Stanford discus thrower and almost certain point winner, and Dell Fishback, University of California low hurdler star, were affected by the rule which states that junior college transfers must file intentions of entrance a year before actual enrollment.

Neither Levy nor Fishback complied with the formality, and athletic officials of both schools said they would ask that the ruling be waived.

If Fishback's participation is allowed, California will send a 13 man team to the eastern meet, it was announced today.

Entries named were: 100 and 200 meter dashes, George Anderson; 3,000 meters, Bob Fowler; 110 meter high hurdles, Tom Moore and John Wood; 200 meter low hurdles, Moore, Ward and Fishback; high jump, Hugh Thompson and Paul Jacques; pole vault, Jack Manger; shot put, George Mackey, Glenn Ransell and Mackey; javelin, Norman Fitzgerald, George Fink and Mackey; 1500 meters, Bob Heavely.

Into custody for questioning earlier in the day. The sixth man, Harry Walker, said to be the head of the organization was, still at liberty.

-a word in edgewise; wise and otherwise

By L. B. WISE

State must get money to maintain itself and after all is said and done we must be the burden bearers. The joint tax committee has delved into strange and secret places in search of the necessary, although elusive dollar. There is no question but that these men are animated by a desire to thoroughly and satisfactorily perform the unpleasant task allotted to them. Yet they have failed to find enough resources to cover the large existing deficit and operate the State during the coming biennium without going into the red.

FORCED CONTRIBUTION

One proposed source of forced contribution which will meet with formidable opposition is to take over the auto personal property taxes which now flow into city and county coffers, and divert them into the State treasury. Naturally the cities and the counties are antagonistic to the scheme, but in my judgment they have better submit with as good grace as possible. The State cannot operate without money and the lesser political subdivisions might as well make up their minds to the inevitable, a contribution of the auto tax.

BETTER SMILE

With the restoration of public utilities to city and county tax rolls the tax load will be considerably lightened for them, which should in a measure assuage our grief over our loss. In the case of a forced put it is better to make a gesture of generosity rather than give outward expressions of inward pain. We might as well become resigned to the fact that we are going to lose the auto tax money and be pleased about it, for our protestations and lamentations will not change the result. The State needs, must have money and in pursuance of the policy of necessity, will take it where it finds it.

Bitter Battle Over NRA nears In House Action

WASHINGTON, May 20.—UP—A bitter struggle in Congress over extension of NRA appeared inevitable tonight as House leaders, ignoring Senate warnings, began work on a resolution which would continue the recovery unit in form satisfactory to President Roosevelt.

The fight between the two houses was brought into the open after Donald Ritchberg, head of the NRA, warned the House committee that the Clark resolution adopted by the Senate would wreck the entire industrial program.

Shortly after, Chairman Robert Doughton, D., N. C., of the committee introduced a resolution embracing most of the seven-point program recommended by President Roosevelt which includes a two-year extension.

JACKSON HEIGHTS, N. Y., May 20.—UP—A four day search for pretty Shirley Evans, 8, ended today in a sand pile "pirate's cave" near her home in which police found the suffocated body of the girl, apparently buried alive under two tons of earth.

She was sought by hundreds of policemen, Boy Scouts and Department of Justice agents since her disappearance last week.

STRANGE FIRE ON MOTOR BOAT IS UNDER QUIZ

PALO ALTO, May 19.—UP—A strange fire about a 10-foot motor boat that caused a 12-year-old Frank Silva, Palo Alto, to jump to his death in the bay near here yesterday was under investigation today.

Frank Silva, the only occupant of the boat, said when he reached shore safely that he had thrown a cigar into the water and the boat and the sudden flames followed.

However, Gabriel Ollari, brother-in-law of the dead youth, told police he was not satisfied with the explanation. He said Silva and Silva frequently had quarreled. He claimed the boat showed no evidence of fire.

Fire Chief William Cline of Palo Alto said he had examined the boat and discovered several scorches. He blamed gasoline collecting from the bilge water in the bottom of the craft.

An examination of the victim's body showed he apparently had drowned. Bruises on the body were explained by medical examiners as crab bites.

The local youth is playing first base for the Wilmington club which is a farm for the Cincinnati Reds of the National league.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—UP—The Hollywood youth, whose team members are always more dismal than his rivals, has a counterpart in the motion picture director. Every studio, it is said, has a waiting wall and every wall a string of directors. The time each spends at it depends upon the size of the picture. The larger the production, the more time the director spends in the waiting wall.

King Vidor, who has done a fair share of waiting in ten years of directing motion pictures, analyzes this phenomenon as a "negative philosophy."

Everything All Wrong

"You start a large picture believing absolutely that everything is going to go wrong," he said. "You believe that the million dollars allotted you isn't going to be half enough; that your principal players are cast wrong; and that the whole scheme of production might be improved at least 50 per cent."

"At the time of starting, you feel highly pessimistic, with but one faint note of optimism—the thought that perhaps there is hope after all. Football coaches are notorious for this negative philosophy and I have practiced it for ten years."

"The system works out this way: You expect the worst and when your stars turn out to be excellent players with an understanding of their parts you experience a beautiful thrill."

Pleasant Surprises

"You say to yourself: 'This business isn't so bad after all; maybe there is a chance the picture will be all right.' And then you discover with increasing surprise that Margaret Sullivan really likes her role she has been given, that the production will balance the budget."

"Adopt this attitude and most of life's troubles can be made to vanish."

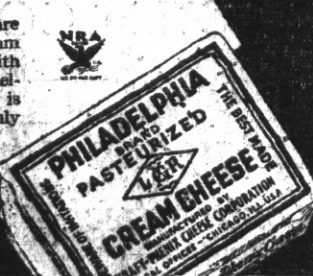

Whether an ordinary industry day, possibly, 10 or less obstacles to surmount, the trials of a movie director multiply up to 36. Vidor finds.

"There are such matters as budgeting, casting, set construction, time-keeping, recording, laboratory work, costume, design, carpentry, and on into distribution—36 departments with which the director comes into daily intimate contact," he explained.

Shot Putter Champ Found In Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La., May 20.—UP—Coach Pierre Moore of Louisiana State University has found an athlete who may make him back for once in shot-putting. The "Hill" is Percy Friend, freshman at L. S. U.

Field fans once believed it impossible for anyone to throw the 16-pound shot much further than 55 feet. Then came Jack Torrance, excellent in his own record by tossing the shot 57 feet after time.

The same coach who trained Torrance now believes he has a better pupil. Coach Moore attributed Torrance's success to his hands, powerful wrists, and body strength. Torrance's hand measures 8 and 5/16 inches from heel to tip of the longest finger. It was there, Coach Moore believed, that Torrance found the power to "flip" the shot farther than opponents.

Torrance, who hopes to win the shot put for the U. S. in the next Olympic games, is assisting Coach Moore in training Friend.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, May 20.—UP—Intelligence reports received here indicate that war between Italy and Abyssinia is certain.

The British, who usually exert powerful influence with Mussolini, have talked to him earnestly and privately. But they have not made a dent. Mussolini is determined to carve out a slice of Africa.

Two methods of attack are open. He can attack soon by air, bomb Addis Ababa, the capital which is a collection of mud huts, and drive Emperor Haile Selassie into the jungle. Then he can offer the Emperor a puppet throne and a fat salary under the rule of Italy if he will come back.

Two Or Mussolini can wait until the rainy season is over in September and then make the surprise attack. The latter method is safer, because by that time his men could travel by motor. During the rains it is impossible.

Which strategy Mussolini finally decides upon depends chiefly on Adolf Hitler.

The ex-Austrian house painter is getting a greater kick out of the Abyssinian races than anyone else. He figures it will give him a chance to accomplish the Anschluss, annex Austria, his homeland. When Mussolini's back is turned on Austria, Hitler would like to send in his Nazis.

This is why an Abyssinian has to gauge his attack on Abyssinia carefully. It is also why the French and British are worried sick over Hitler's war plans.

Between African and massive Senator Guy Robinson and Kinship since long there is no love lost and Guy goes to no pains to hide the fact.

He, who disdains asking other senators to put his speeches in the Congressional Record, rose on the floor the other day and said: "Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have a radio address printed in the Record."

During Secretary Wallace's last speech, he said he had heard about it.

"Yes, and they're plenty mad. But not at you. They're mad at Congress. I can't make out whether it's because Congress is doing some things they don't want, or not some things they want, but anyhow they're plenty mad."

During Secretary Wallace's last speech, he said he had heard about it.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, May 20.—Major L. Guardia and former Governor Al Smith will appear together as a blackface comedy team on May 29 at the St. James Theater. The occasion is the amateur minstrel show to be given by New York Lodge 1 of the Elks.

Well, portlanders are often comical, so what's the surprise? No letter addressed to Maude Adams at her present address on Long Island gets to her first. The famous actress mail is read by her lady aid, who decides whether it is important enough.

George Bernard Shaw sends word that he has written a new drama called "Millionaires." The playwright, now in South Africa, writes that "it has no moral, it teaches you nothing and has no long speeches, none that last more than ten minutes."

MORE SNIPPETS—"The Old Maid" Pulitzer Prize winner, took in $15,500.03 the week after the award was announced as compared to $11,556 the week before. The honor judge also assures a Summer run and a road tour of thirty-six cities next Fall.

Now you see why Broadway gets so hot and bothered about these things. One way of telling whether a show is a genuine hit is by the program books. The further the paying audience the thicker the program books.

And the happier the advertisers.

PAROLE—Richard Dix has just had twin boys born to him, and the movie star doesn't know just what to do about a British contract he recently signed.

Dix is supposed to put out on location for his new picture, but why he signed the contract several months ago he never said.

He would not be permitted to leave the country for thirty days after the birth of his child. Now he can't figure out whether he's entitled to sixty days' grace.

SURETY MISS—Sometimes surety agents don't know when to stop. All the city citizens in town received the following message from a smart young man who had come up with a thought was a sure fire scheme for his clients:

"Mothers at home for married couples will be beneficial for Mother's Day by a group of juveniles."

Missouri Pacific official approached him, asked if he were having a comfortable trip, then said: "We're carrying a lot of farmers to Washington over this line next week."

Wallace said he hadn't heard about it.

"Yes, and they're plenty mad. But not at you. They're mad at Congress. I can't make out whether it's because Congress is doing some things they don't want, or not some things they want, but anyhow they're plenty mad."

Mooney Appeal Filed In Court Then Withdrawn

ST. FRANCISCO, May 20.—UP—Attorneys for Tom Mooney today filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus with the State Supreme court, then withdrew the petition.

It was announced that the District court of Appeals, which recently rejected a similar plea, has jurisdiction in the case to May 29.

The appeal will be filed later, the Marin county superior court also has declined the petition.

Mooney's attorney began the campaign in state courts for his release after the United States Supreme court, possibly, a similar petition, recommending that all relief possibilities in the California courts first be exhausted.

There'll be no death of enemies hereabouts next reason, if present plans are carried out.

Eddie Cantor will turn up in a musical, George Jessel has purchased a play which he will produce himself and Jimmy Durante is engaged for "Jumbo" Willie and Eugene Howard will appear in "Saratoon" clips. Bert Lahr will be in "Scandals" and there is even talk of W. C. Fields gaining a release on Broadway for a brief term.

Doing Too Much in Too Much Sun Can Make Trip a Nightmare

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M. D.

THE EASY modes of travel make it quite the fad now to skip off to some warm spot almost any season. A vigorous program of sports is usually arranged, including golf, swimming, or tennis, topped off with dancing in the evening. Perhaps, it is timely to warn against the possibility of heat stroke. Exposure to heat, particularly when there is a large amount of moisture in the air, leads to various conditions. These conditions may range from a feeling of weakness and a hot skin to severe heat cramps, heat exhaustion, heat or sun stroke, and even sudden death.

DR. CHRISMAN

Heat exhaustion is manifested by dizziness, great weakness, mental dullness, profuse sweating, rapid pulse and respiration, lowering of the blood pressure, and sub-normal temperature. Sometimes cramps occur in the muscles of the abdomen and legs and arms. The patient seldom loses consciousness. The attack may occur suddenly even without exertion.

It is quite common in the tropics, caused by prolonged exposure to excessive heat. It may come on slowly with headache, sick stomach, constipation and muscular weakness.

Heat exhaustion is treated by placing the patient in a cool place, give light stimulant if needed, and warm or cool sponging as indicated. Baking soda and glucose internally are helpful. In heat stroke or sun stroke, the heat regulating mechanism seems to be overwhelmed and not just hampered as in heat exhaustion.

Heat stroke may come on following heat exhaustion, and the picture decidedly. Sun-stroke usually comes on suddenly and death may be instantaneous, but frequently it is preceded by headache, nausea, vomiting, and disturbances of sight. They become unconscious quickly. The face is flushed, the skin hot and dry, while the temperature rises rapidly, sometimes reaching 103 degrees or 104 degrees F. In the early stages, the pulse is rapid and bounding, the breathing is deep and the pupils widely dilated.

As the condition becomes worse, the pulse grows irregular, rapid and feeble. Breathing is shallow and irregular and may continue growing worse until death occurs. If the patient survives the second day, recovery is probable, but it is likely to be followed by impairment of memory and inability to withstand extreme heat for a long time.

Heat or sun stroke require prompt and vigorous treatment. Ice water packs, cold sprays, and ice water baths, and ice water injections should be used freely till the temperature is reduced to about 101 degrees or 102 degrees F., then cool sponging.

THE HEART must be watched carefully and if congestion of the lungs occurs, bleeding may be necessary. It is quite possible if those exposed to severe heat, or who sweat freely, would drink a generous quantity of salt water, they would endure the heat much better, and be in less danger of heat stroke and muscular cramps.

Much of the remedy in cases like these lies in the hands of the patient himself. In the case of folks who are off on a brief vacation, it is nothing short of folly to plan a program that is radically different from their usual activity. The human anatomy simply balks at too great a change in muscular and nervous expenditure.

Most vacations are over-anxious to crowd the few days of leisure with a variety of experiences, whereas the change of program should call for more rest than usual. At the first sign of weariness, especially if the climate is noticeably different, exercise should cease. If there is a tendency to flashes of light or color through the eyes, or a pulse that is "flicking" and sufficient head covering to ward off or temper the direct rays of the sun.

Exposure of the body surface to the sunlight is delightful and refreshing for a time, but if too sudden or too extensive, serious results may follow. Before long we must talk again about tan and sunburn.

Dr. Chrisman offers readers the privilege of addressing questions to him care of this column. He will answer questions of general interest in his regular daily column on this page.

Profiles For Today

Warren M. Persons, Changes Outlook

By TALBOT LAKE

PROFESSOR IRVING FISHER, of Yale, is the chief proponent of what is called the commodity dollar, which means simply that the value of a dollar would be based on its purchasing power in commodities. This theory is considered far from conventional economics, and the professor has had some difficulty in acquiring followers. That makes it more than unusual to find he has a backer in Warren M. Persons, who has just helped to organize the American Economics Foundation.

Mr. Persons has a reputation of being a right wing economist. He has been intent on keeping the Government out of business, and has gone along in the old methods of handling supply and demand problems.

There is something else out of line in Mr. Persons' latest connection. The American Economics Foundation, whose purpose it is "to secure for the American people the economic benefits of science and invention," has issued a prospectus which includes several other heretical ideas—heretical, that is, in comparison with Mr. Persons' former credo. The Foundation, for instance, champions the independent manufacturer against "patent monopolies." It maintains "the improper use of the patent device by certain groups intrinsically monopolies, brings about monopolistic control of industry and prices, and exploits consumers."

Mr. Persons, who steps forward on this platform, is a middle-aged lawyer, born in Wisconsin and educated at the University of Wisconsin. After teaching at other universities, he was professor of economics at Harvard from 1919 to 1928. He retired to set himself up as a consultant in economics, which is his real business. He is the author of "Forecasting Business Conditions" and several other books. His connection with the Foundation is as consulting economist.

This unusual hostess gown in hand-loomed taffeta, striped in apple and myrtle green, is worn by Katharine Hepburn. The gown is fitted in the bodice by close going of the light stripes, the skirt flaring from waist to floor in sunburst style. The back of the skirt is unusually full, and cut with a stiff, full train. In keeping with this flaring skirt, the dolman sleeves are cut from the waist and shirred into a narrow, close-fitted cuff which fastens with tiny flat buttons self-covered in the apple green.

QUESTION: "Who makes the gift of small silver, knives, forks, spoons etc., to a pair about to be married? Also, would it be in order to present the bride-to-be with wearing apparel as a wedding gift?"—M. M. D.

ANSWER: The small silver is usually given by the parents of the bride-to-be. It is true that dry skins usually wrinkle first, but the oily skin will also wrinkle if it is neglected. Scrub your skin thoroughly with soap and water at least once a day to cleanse it and remove the surface oil. Rinse well and massage thoroughly with an astringent cream that will help shrink the pores and check the flow of oil. There is a fine scented cream that is excellent for this purpose. The massage will stimulate the circulation and make the tissues firmer, which in turn will help smooth out the lines in your face.

New York—Organdy goes over taffeta just as naturally as light follows day. There are light and dark organdies, of course, some of the dark ones are extremely smart. Navy, brown and black are the favorites—both day and night.

Just now it looks as though lace were the top for most purposes. Lace alone or with something else. There is a perfect craze for stiffened laces for frocks in pastel shades and in black.

Don't forget that narrow Valenciennes is being used for trimming and also that bits of Irish crochet lace are appearing here and there, but always in the smartest places.

Unless you have been wearing blouses you must know that sashes are back again. Literally back in some cases, great bows giving a quasi-bustle silhouette. Sashes are of very wide ribbons, as sashes usually are, and they have a dramatic habit of contrasting with the dress. What with one thing and another, there is a good deal of ribbon all widths and kinds in use just now. Hats make a great point of bows and flowers—dresses do, too.

Sketched today are two models for beach wear that will be ideal for Memorial Day, whether it be warm or cool.

At left is a wool jersey outfit consisting of beach dress with high waistline and full bodice section and cape, the latter plain but trimmed by a border of the dot embroidered jersey used for the dress. The hat matches. Royal blue and flame red combine. At right is a paisley-patterned synthetic jersey outfit of the Tahitian type, combining green with rust tones.

Maple Flavor Adds a Spice To Desserts

By JUDITH WILSON

THERE IS something about maple that appeals to everyone. That maple taste puts pies, cakes, ice creams and mousses, custards, frostings and candies into a distinctive class. While you commonly think of maple syrup in connection with frosty mornings, and piles of hot fragrant pancakes, it is just as good in midsummer and it can be combined in all sorts of easy, summing recipes.

Maple-Baked Ham
Have a center slice of ham about one and one-half inches thick. Parboil for five minutes, drain, trim away the rind and slick cloves into the fat. Place in a baking dish, arrange six medium sized peeled sweet potatoes around the ham and pour over one cup maple-flavored syrup. Bake in a moderate oven fifty minutes, then increase the heat to hot and bake for ten minutes longer or until the ham and sweet potatoes are nicely browned. This will serve six—if no one asks for a second helping.

Maple Butterscotch Pie
Combine one-fourth cup sugar, one-half cup cornstarch and one-half teaspoon salt. Add one cup maple-flavored syrup gradually, stirring until smooth. Add to one and one-half cups scalded milk in the top of a double boiler and cook until the mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Pour a small amount of the syrup mixture over the slightly beaten yolks of two eggs, return to the double boiler and cook three minutes longer, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire, add four tablespoons butter and one teaspoon vanilla. Cool. Turn into a baked pie shell.

Montpelier Mousse
Heat one cup maple syrup in a double boiler. Pour a small amount over the yolks of four eggs that have been beaten until thick and lemon colored. Stir vigorously, while pouring, then return to the double boiler and cook until slightly thickened. Cool slightly and add a dash of salt and one cup cream whipped until stiff. Place in the freezing tray of your refrigerator or pack in ice and salt and let stand three or four hours or until firm.

For quick biscuits use the prepared biscuit mixture. If you like to mix your own, use two cups sifted cake flour, two teaspoons combination-type baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Cut in six tablespoons shortening and milk enough to make a soft dough that easily handled. Roll the dough about one-half inch thick and spread with one-fourth cup softened butter. Sprinkle with one-third cup shaved macie sugar, and one-half cup chopped pecans or walnuts. Roll up like a jelly roll and cut in thick slices. Butter muffin tins and into each one put one-half teaspoon melted butter and two teaspoons shaved maple sugar. Set over low heat until the sugar is melted, then put two or three nutmeats in each pan and put in the rolls cut side down. Bake in a hot oven about fifteen minutes. Turn out while hot and serve upside down.

MODERN WOMEN

Should a Wife Carry on Regular Correspondence With Former Boy Friends?

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

WHY SHOULD a woman query an outsider what her husband's attitude is on any subject when all she has to do is to ask him? The answer is that she knows what his attitude is and she's afraid of rousing his ire by going ahead with what she knows displeases him. This seems to me the case of the wife who writes today.

"Dear Mrs. Martin: Do you think that a married woman should carry on a lively correspondence with another man? I was over thirty when I married and I had a great deal and a traveled quite a little I had a number of friends of both sexes. I wrote to some of my far away friends and men friends. I have continued doing so since I married, but now I find that my husband resents it—at least he doesn't seem to like it. There has never been any secrecy about it, and I have offered to read my letters and invited him to read those I received, but he always says sarcastically, 'I don't think you should write to those men.' He has never asked me to stop writing, but should I without his asking? I just hate to do it. It seems so unnecessary to give up one's friends when one marries, don't you think so?"—Dorothy.

Do you consider friendship only a matter of keeping contact? Would you be giving up these friends because you ceased writing to them? I don't think so—not if they were real friends. Whether you continue corresponding with these men depends on your husband's attitude. If he is tolerant, sophisticated, he will not mind. If he is the old-fashioned possessive type, you had better not write letters to other men.

HOW, I wonder, does he feel about your friends near at hand? Does he mind having some of them? Do you know if he married you drop in once in a while? Does he ever suggest that you ask them to dine? It would seem to me that his attitude toward the near-at-hand friends would give you a clue as to how he felt about your writing to your distant ones.

Why not ask him right out whether he would prefer you to discontinue writing to them? Shall I tell you why you have not already done this? It's because you know, or at least fear, that he will say he does mind, and you very much want to continue these friendships.

Have you asked yourself how you would like his corresponding with some of his old girl friends? Wouldn't you ever be curious and wonder about these friendships, whether they were just that or whether these women had not played some serious part in your husband's past life? Even without being unduly suspicious, husbands and wives are inclined to wonder about the depth of these old attachments.

WERE such a thing possible as to have a marriage start at scratch, with all the friends and even families in the discard, I think the chances of it being a happy marriage would be greater than when one attempted to carry over the interests of the old life into the new.

I've never discovered that husbands have any deep affection for their wives' old friends. As a rule, they are inclined to be antagonistic toward them, although they may be polite enough to keep these feelings to themselves. I certainly never found a wife very enthusiastic over her husband's former girl friends, did you?

These men friends of yours, who are not your husband's friends, will not hold it against you if you stop writing to them. They will realize that you're busy on the other foot, and they would not like their wives corresponding with other men. An occasional letter is a different matter. No one would, I suppose, object to the exchange of holiday greetings, but an active correspondence implies an active interest.

WHEEL LUNCH ROOM DENIED BY COUNCIL

On a motion of Councilman J. R. Beck the council of El Cerrito refused to accept the recommendation of the planning commission and denied Louis B. Chomos a permit to locate a wheel lunch room at Panhandle and San Pablo avenue.

Beck said there were a number of restaurants in the neighborhood and it would be unfair competition.

Blake McNeil was reappointed to a fourth term on the planning commission on the recommendation of Councilman Louis Navallier.

City Engineer H. D. Chapman was instructed to find out the extent of delay if the council changes the specifications for the improvement of Cutting boulevard.

Councilman Louis Navallier said that under the present specifications Calrock must be used and there should be an alternate of asphaltic concrete which would use more local materials.

W. D. Perry, Oasis night club, was denied a dance permit on a motion made by Councilman J. R. Beck.

A communication was ordered sent the county representatives at the State legislature asking that they lend efforts to stop the taking of the taxing of automobiles from the city and county and placing them on the State tax rolls.

A dance permit was granted by the council to Manasse Block Welfare Club to be held in Schwake hall June 1.

A representative of the New York Casualty company complained to the council that the insurance on the fire department equipment which had formerly placed with his company had been turned over to a British concern. It was referred to Insurance Broker M. F. Ralston.

City Clerk Fred J. Prosser reported the reappraisal of improved property being done by the SERA would be delayed for about ten or fifteen days because the men were being used on the Federal Home Administration canvass.

A letter of thanks was ordered sent the Louis Hagen Post American Legion for the inhalator machine presented the police department.

Request of the Louis Hagen Post that the service flag denoting those from El Cerrito killed in the World War be placed in the Memorial hall was referred to Councilman Peter Larsen.

A communication from the Division of Highways asking the council to budget the gasoline money to be received by the city was referred to City Engineer H. D. Chapman.

An offer of the Standard Oil to renew the present contract for gasoline and oil for the city for a period of one year was placed on file on a motion of Councilman J. R. Beck.

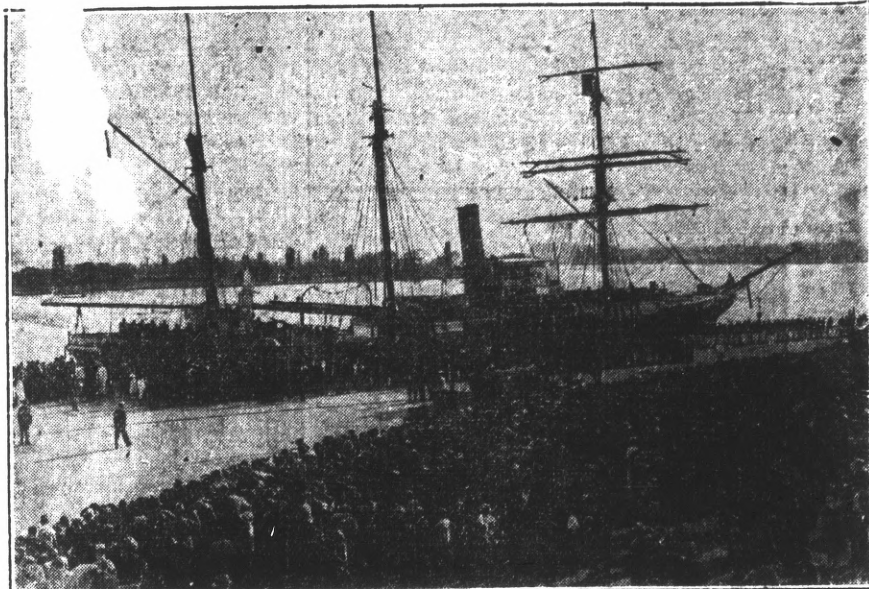

Beck said the present contract protected the city and that bids should be called for if a new contract was to be made.

Leniency Will Be Asked For Two Kidnappers

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—UP—Leniency will be asked for the first two men in California to be sentenced to hang under the State's kidnapping law, Henry Bodkin, their alleged victim, revealed today.

Bodkin said he plans to visit Governor Frank F. Merriam to ask his intervention to commute death sentences against Harry Brooks and William E. Tanner to life imprisonment.

Brooks and Tanner were convicted of forcing Bodkin and his wife into their own home and torturing them in an effort to learn the hiding place of a reputed fortune in gems and money.

Bodkin, Los Angeles attorney, said he believed the pair had been controlled by a "higher up" in the asserted crime.

ROOSEVELT UNMOVED BY BONUS PLEA

That prevented an immediate vote in the Senate.

"I did it," Steiwer explained later, "because I think the procedure contemplated by the President is unconstitutional. I shall express my opinion on it and vote against it."

VOTE EXPECTED

Some time between now and Wednesday the Senate will vote on the resolution, but there probably will be considerable speech making.

Robinson said tonight he would like to see "some kind of bonus legislation worked out and passed" and added "I would be glad to contribute to that end if I could."

COMPROMISE SOUGHT

Presumably he meant the Harrison compromise which would call for the expenditure of only about half of what the Patman bill carries. The Harrison bill, defeated in the Senate, is not inflationary.

There were reports that Mr. Roosevelt told the bonus steering committee that he, too, would not go adverse to a bonus bill that did not call for such a large expenditure and for currency inflation.

The American Legion lobbyists, working for enactment of the Patman bill, decided to drop everything else today and put the screws on a dozen Senators who hold the key to defeat or victory in the upper House.

Thirty-Two Hurt, One Is Killed By Fall of Building

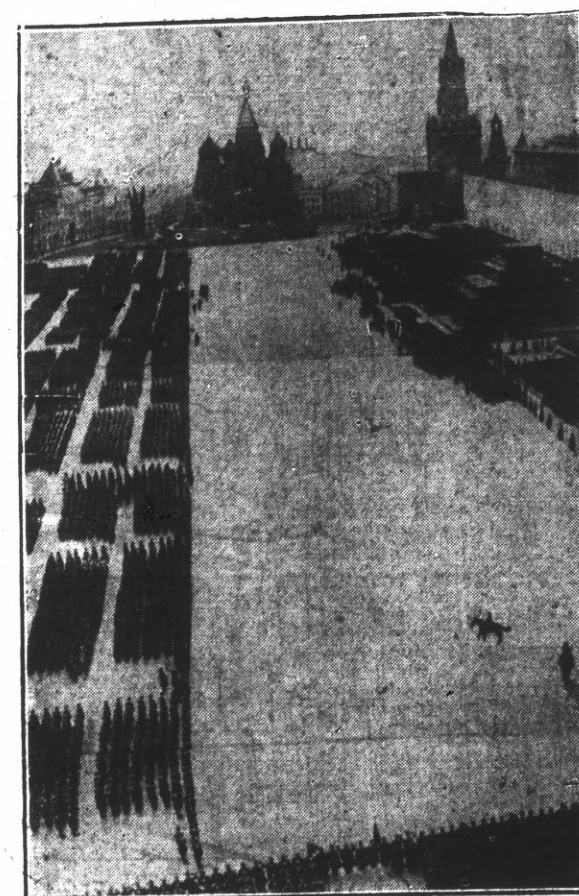

YAKIMA, Wash., May 20.—UP—Thirty-two celebrants of Yakima's pioneer days festival were recovering tonight from injuries sustained when a cornice of the brick Mercey building fell, killing Victor Ruff, 18, Sunday.

A crowd of men, women and children on the roof fell amidst brick and mortar on the persons who thronged the sidewalk, just as a parade of covered wagons, stage coaches, whiskered men on horseback and women in dresses of the eighties passed the building.

Seven of the 32 taken to a hospital were injured seriously.

City official said they had issued warnings against people going on roofs to watch the parade. The city board of appeals started an investigation.
